

Written with tags

As typed:

`<h1>Runs in flowing text</h1>`The ``amount of 1,234.56 EUR`` is payable by ``31 October``; after that date the price of `<s>`980.00 EUR`</s>` no longer applies, and the ``late payment surcharge`` becomes due. The conditions are published at ``fossil.sowaswie.de/tclpdf``, where the ``complete`` terms can be read at any time.

`<h2>`What the breaker does with it`</h2>`Every piece is measured in the face it is set in - a bold word is wider than the same word regular - so the line breaks fall where they have to, and a justified line stretches the spaces of every piece by the same amount. A word may cross a run boundary and is still one word to the hyphenator: ``Betriebs``kostenabrechnung breaks inside the bold part or after it, wherever the patterns allow.

`<h3>`What it does not do`</h3>`A run does not change the size or the colour. Both belong to the paragraph; a heading is the one thing that changes the size, and it does so as a paragraph of its own. And a run does not kern with its neighbour: bold and regular have no pair table between them in any face.

As set with -markup tags:

Runs in flowing text

The amount of 1,234.56 EUR is payable by 31 October; after that date the price of ~~980.00 EUR~~ no longer applies, and the late payment surcharge becomes due. The conditions are published at fossil.sowaswie.de/tclpdf, where the complete terms can be read at any time.

What the breaker does with it

Every piece is measured in the face it is set in - a bold word is wider than the same word regular - so the line breaks fall where they have to, and a justified line stretches the spaces of every piece by the same amount. A word may cross a run boundary and is still one word to the hyphenator: Betriebskostenabrechnung breaks inside the bold part or after it, wherever the patterns allow.

What it does not do

A run does not change the size or the colour. Both belong to the paragraph; a heading is the one thing that changes the size, and it does so as a paragraph of its own. And a run does not kern with its neighbour: bold and regular have no pair table between them in any face.

Written in Markdown

As typed:

Runs in flowing text

The amount of 1,234.56 EUR is payable by 31 October; after that date the price of ~~980.00 EUR~~ no longer applies, and the late payment surcharge becomes due. The conditions are published at fossil.sowaswie.de/tclpdf, where the complete terms can be read at any time.

What the breaker does with it

Every piece is measured in the face it is set in - a bold word is wider than the same word regular - so the line breaks fall where they have to, and a justified line stretches the spaces of every piece by the same amount. A word may cross a run boundary and is still one word to the hyphenator:

Betriebskostenabrechnung breaks inside the bold part or after it, wherever the patterns allow.

What it does not do

A run does not change the size or the colour. Both belong to the paragraph; a heading is the one thing that changes the size, and it does so as a paragraph of its own. And a run does not kern with its neighbour: bold and regular have no pair table between them in any face.

As set with -markup markdown:

Runs in flowing text

The amount of 1,234.56 EUR is payable by 31 October; after that date the price of ~~980.00 EUR~~ no longer applies, and the late payment surcharge becomes due. The conditions are published at fossil.sowaswie.de/tclpdf, where the complete terms can be read at any time.

What the breaker does with it

Every piece is measured in the face it is set in - a bold word is wider than the same word regular - so the line breaks fall where they have to, and a justified line stretches the spaces of every piece by the same amount. A word may cross a run boundary and is still one word to the hyphenator: Betriebskostenabrechnung breaks inside the bold part or after it, wherever the patterns allow.

What it does not do

A run does not change the size or the colour. Both belong to the paragraph; a heading is the one thing that changes the size, and it does so as a paragraph of its own. And a run does not kern with its neighbour: bold and regular have no pair table between them in any face.

Both notations break into 13 lines, and the lines are identical, runs and options alike - the underline apart, which Markdown has no spelling for.